

The Strutz family is adopting Daniel

This young boy was brought to the orphanage shortly after birth. His mother had thrown him down a well in fear of her husband's reaction to him being born as a result of a relationship outside of marriage. She was sorry for her actions and went back to get him. Daniel was then placed at the orphanage. He suffers from damage to the optic nerve. His eyesight is improving. Due to his visual impairment he hasn't received schooling. Daniel is described as a sweet, gentle boy.
